“LEADERSHIP”

When I was 5 years old, my mother always told me that happiness was the key to life. When I went to school, they asked me what I wanted to be when I grew up.

What Leaders Can Learn

from Charlie Brown

Skill Set: Persistence

Charlie Brown always took his chance to kick the football. He didn't let his previous failures deter him. Leaders will sometimes fail, but they take action when they encounter new opportunities for success.

“Failure is the opportunity to begin again more intelligently.”

Henry Ford

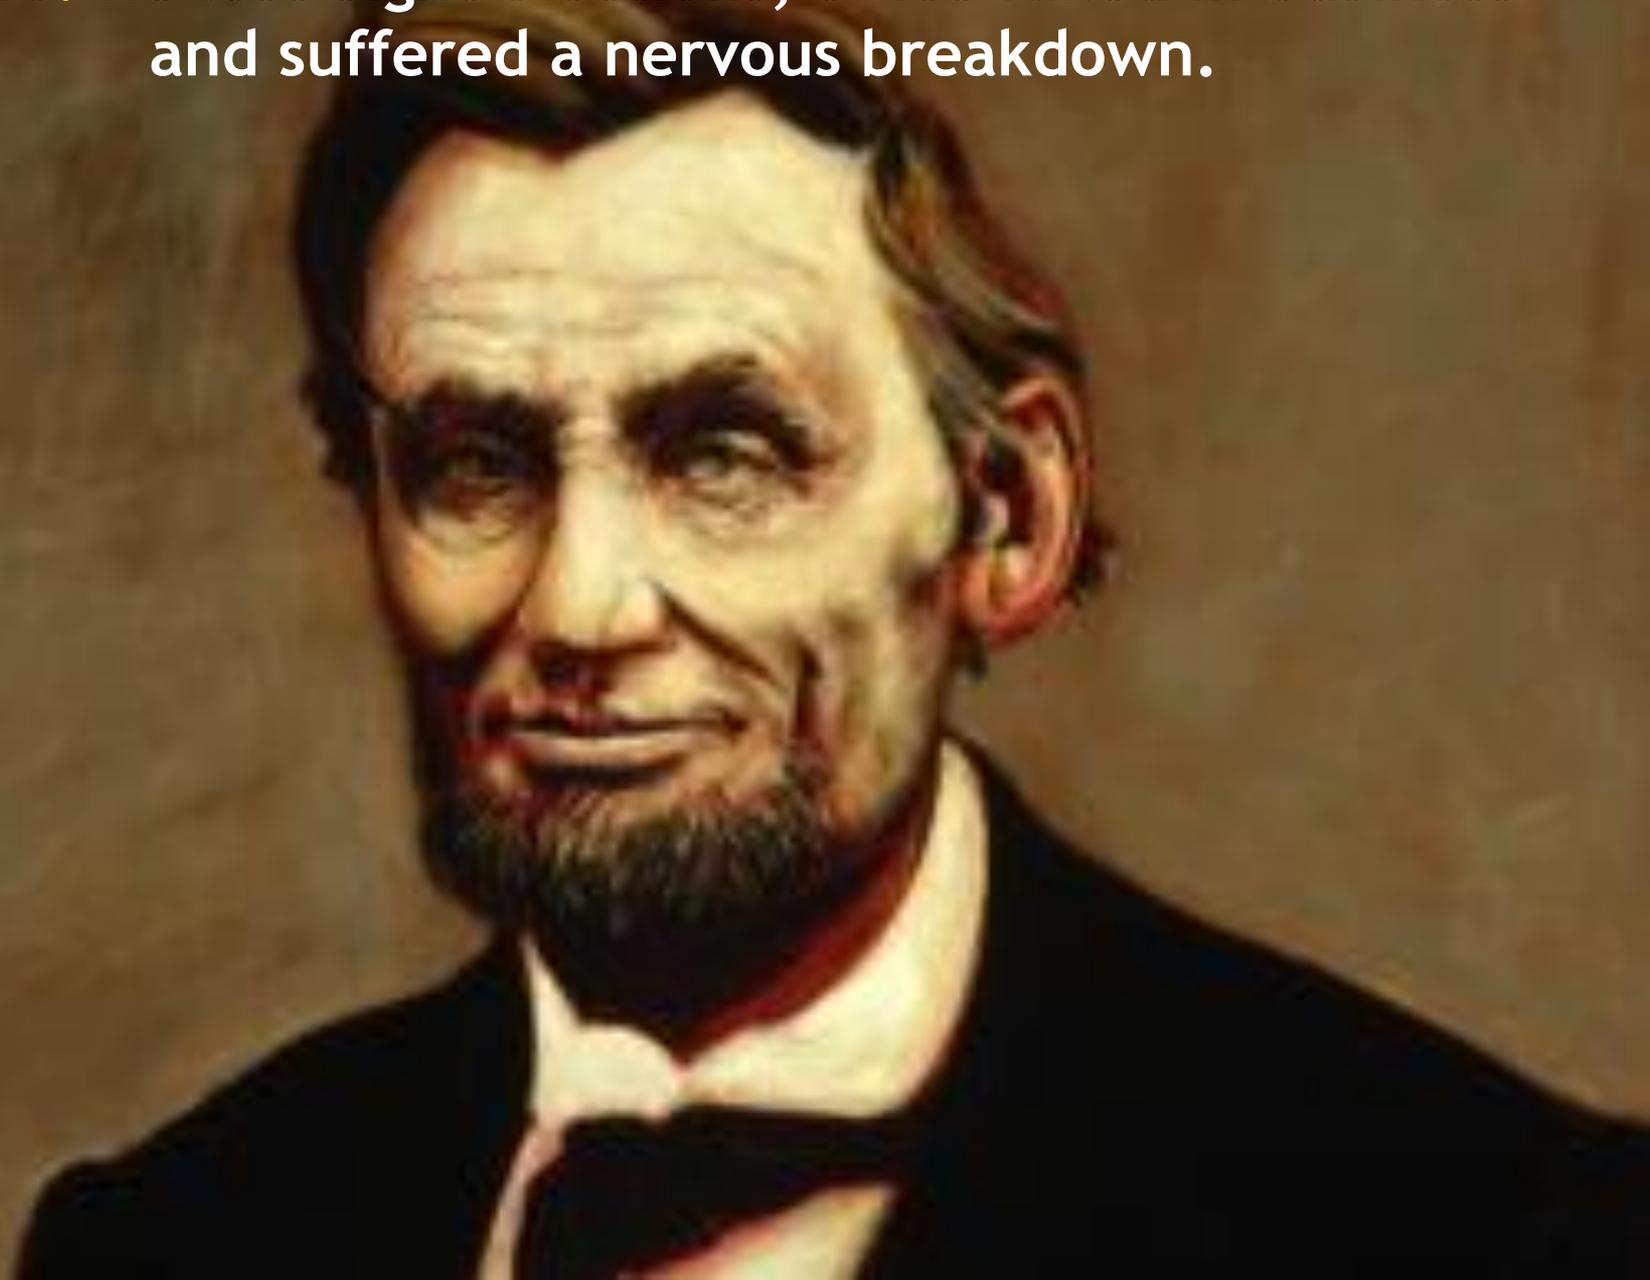

A detailed wax figure or portrait of Abraham Lincoln, showing his characteristic beard and hair, wearing a dark suit and a white shirt with a dark tie. The background is a plain, dark grey.

A Case Study in Persistence

Probably the greatest example of persistence is Abraham Lincoln. If you want to learn about somebody who didn't quit, look no further.

Born into poverty, Lincoln was faced with defeat throughout his life. He lost eight elections, twice failed in business and suffered a nervous breakdown.

He could have quit many times - but he didn't and because he didn't quit, he became one of the greatest presidents in the history of the country.
Lincoln was a champion and he never gave up.

1816 His family was forced out of their home. He had to work to support them.

1818 His mother died.

1831 Failed
in business.

1832 Ran for state legislature
- lost.

1832 Also lost his job - wanted to go to law school but couldn't get in.

1833 Borrowed some money from a friend to begin a business and by the end of the year he was bankrupt. He spent the next 17 years of his life paying off this debt.

1834 Ran for state legislature again
- won.

1835 Was engaged to be married, sweetheart died and his heart was broken.
1836 Had a total nervous breakdown and was in bed for six months.

1838 Sought to become speaker of the state legislature - defeated.
1840 Sought to become elector - defeated.
1843 Ran for Congress - lost.

1846 Ran for Congress again
-this time he won - went to Washington and did a good job.

1848 Ran for re-election to Congress - lost.

1849 Sought the job of land officer in his home state - rejected.

- 1854 Ran for Senate of the United States - lost.
- 1856 Sought the Vice-Presidential nomination at his party's national convention - get less than 100 votes.
- 1858 Ran for U.S. Senate again - again he lost.

1860 Elected president of the United States.

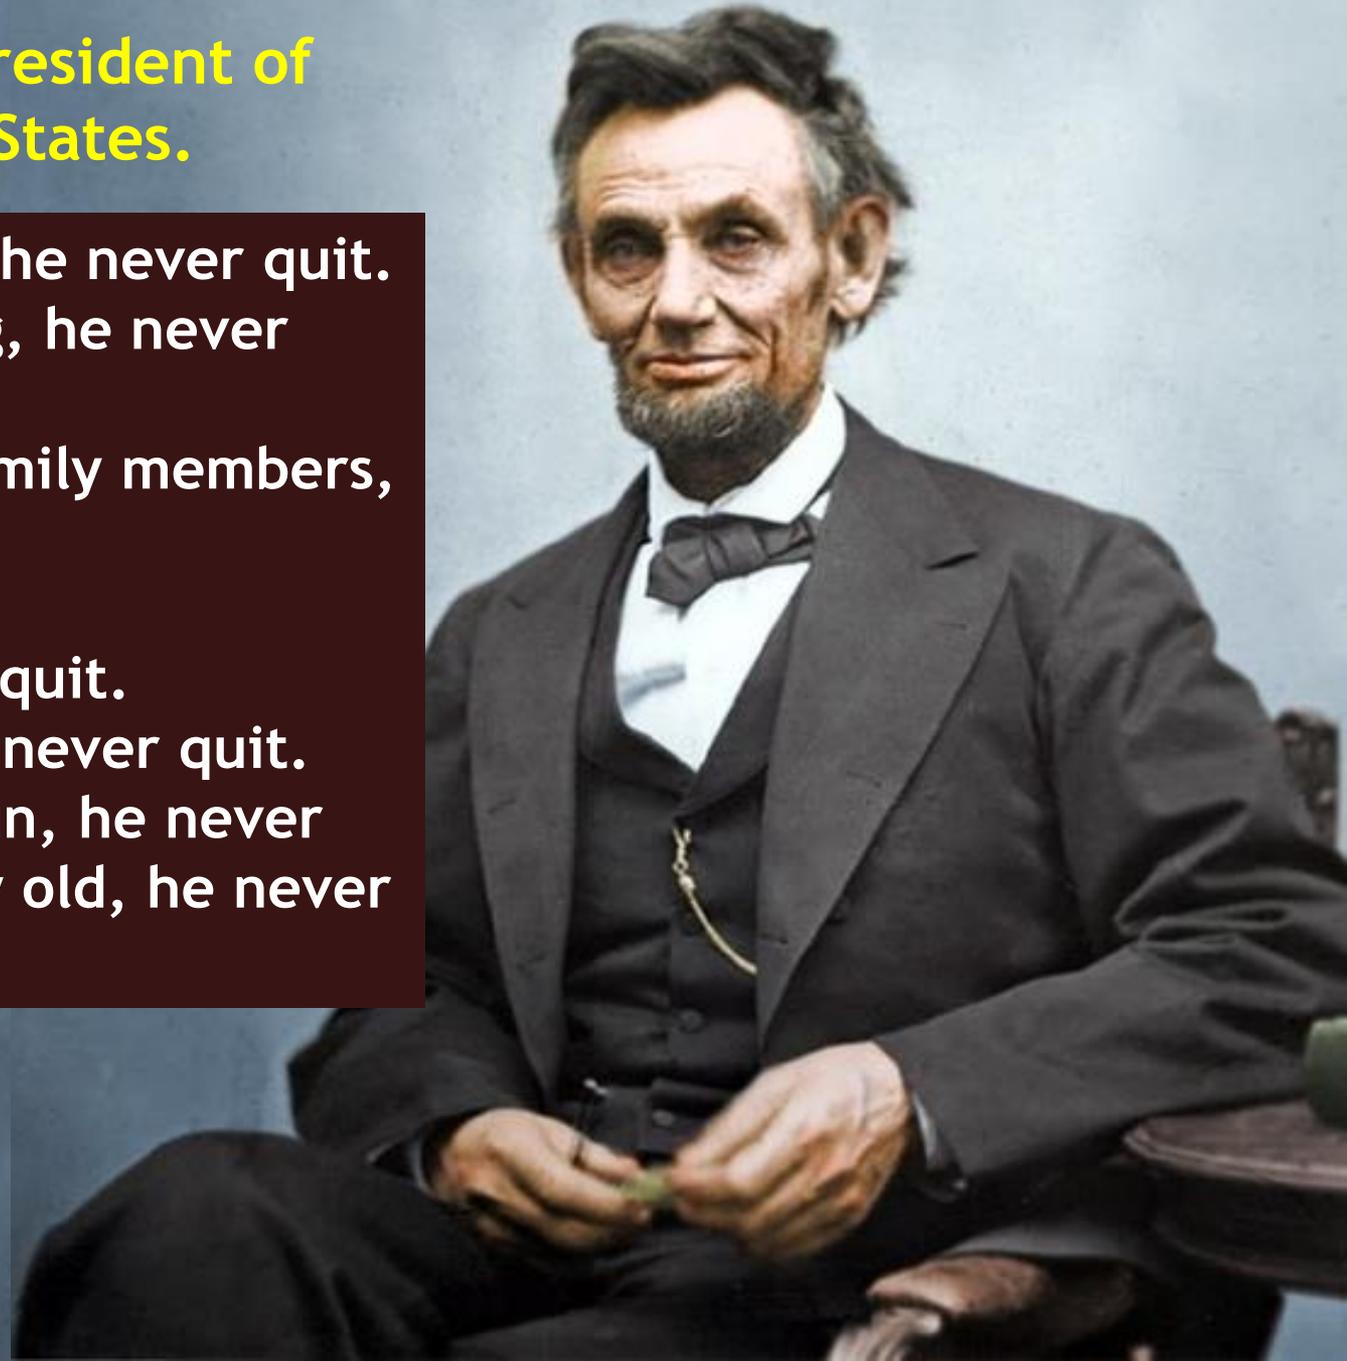

When he was poor, he never quit.
When he was young, he never quit.

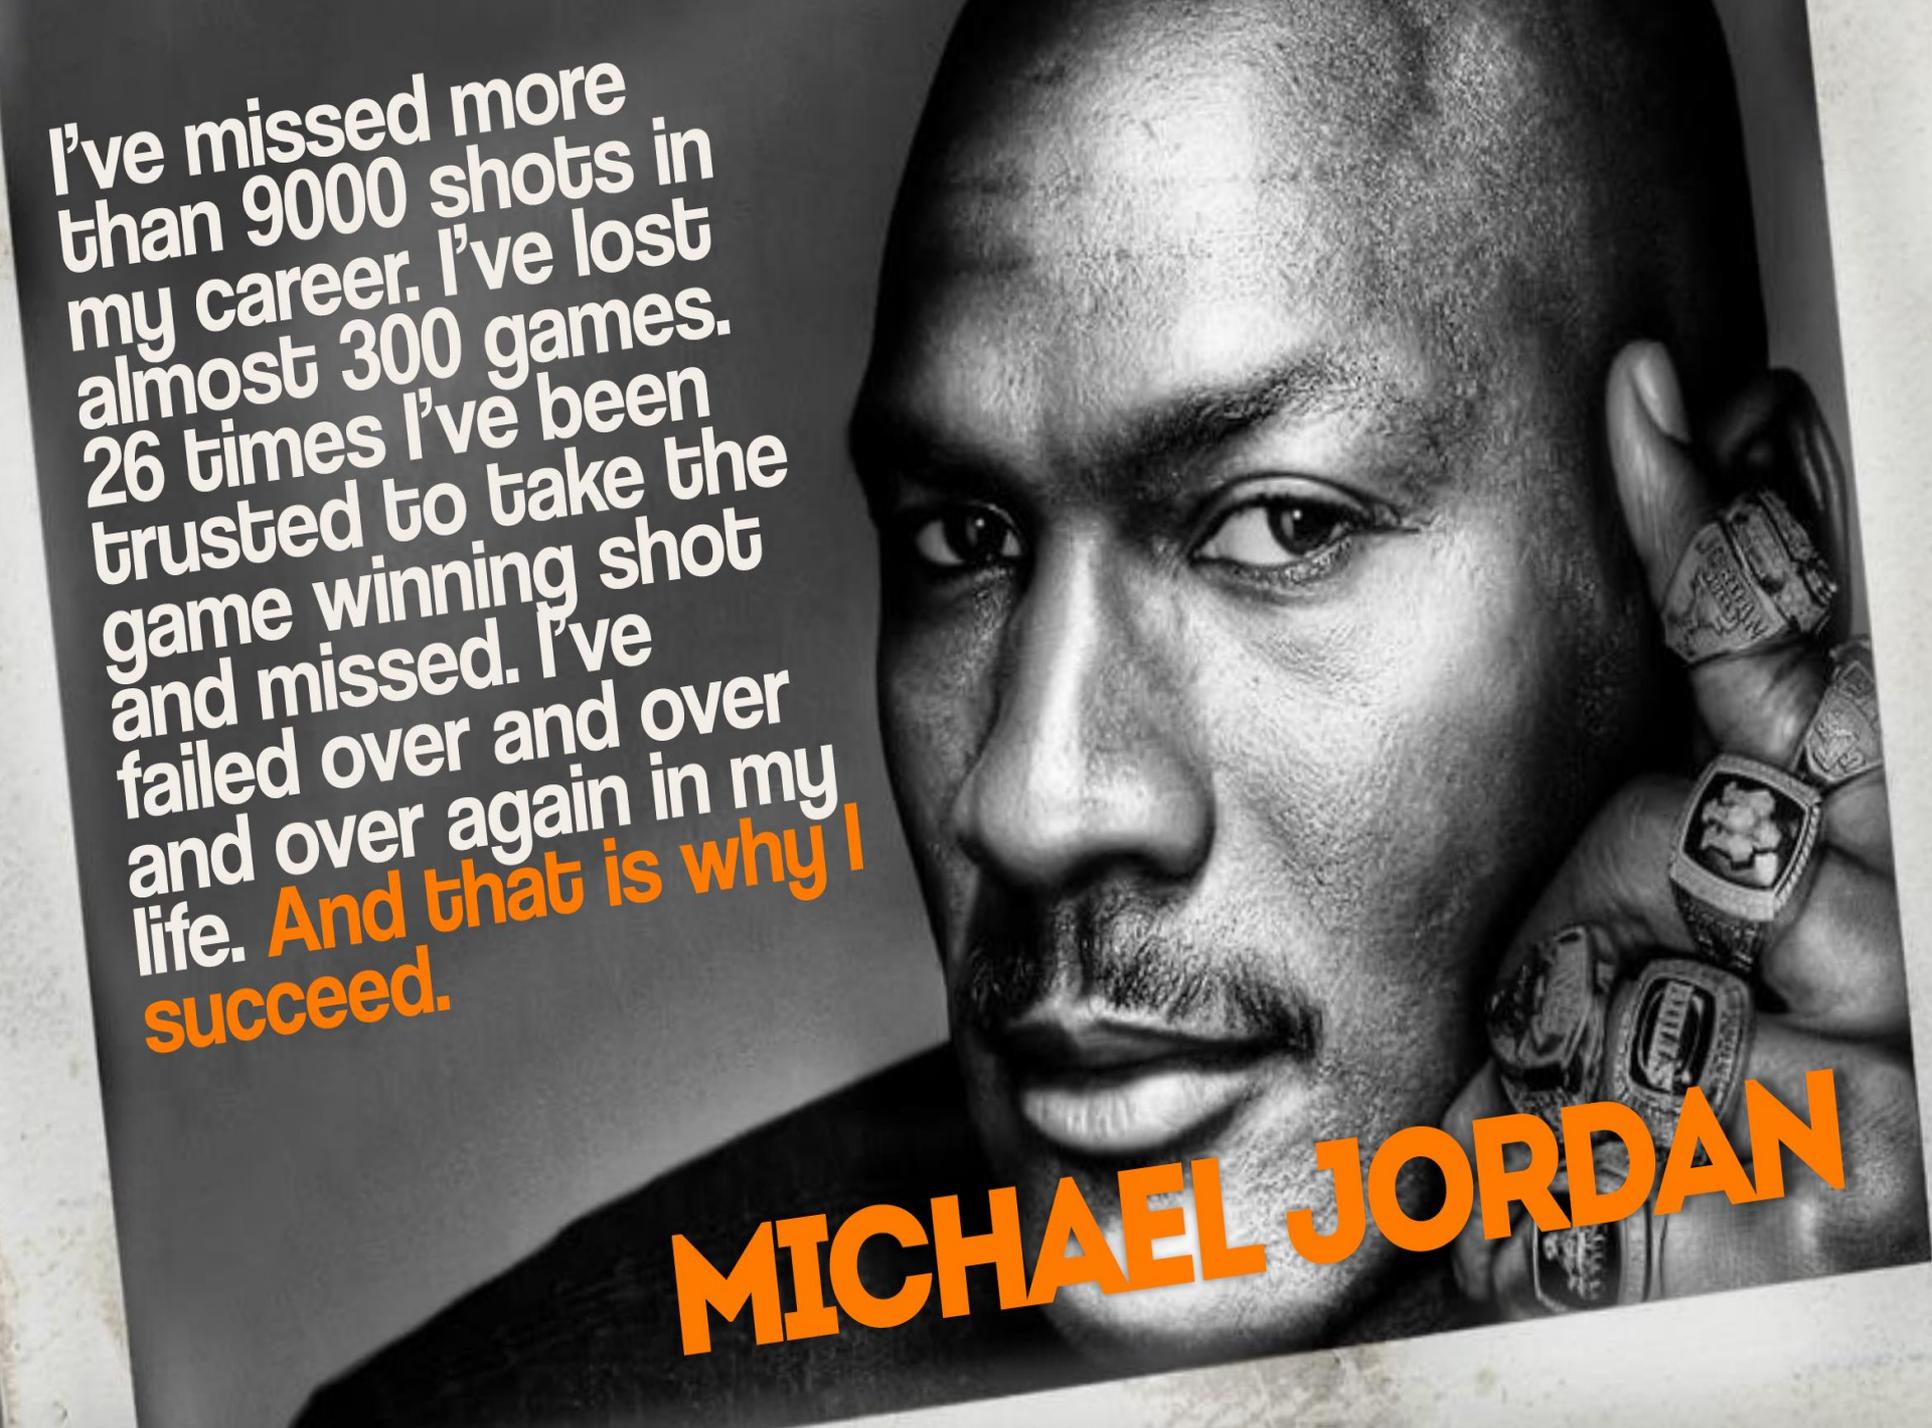

When he lost his family members,
he never quit.

When he was rejected, he never quit.

When he failed, he never quit.

When he failed again, he never quit. When he grew old, he never quit.

I've missed more than 9000 shots in my career. I've lost almost 300 games. 26 times I've been trusted to take the game winning shot and missed. I've failed over and over and over again in my life. And that is why I succeed.

Skill Set: Rewrite/Revise - Creative & Critical Thinking

Snoopy began all his novels with, “It was a dark and stormy night.” This comedic riff became a classic Peanuts joke. It reminds us that leaders aren’t afraid to engage in creative and critical thinking – i.e., remain in a constant state of revising and rewrite that first draft of leadership 101.

"In thinking there is creating, in creating there is doing, in doing there is learning, in learning there is success."

The scene is captured from a slightly elevated perspective, showing the men's heads and shoulders as they move. The ground is wet and reflective, and the overall atmosphere is one of a classic, perhaps historical, rainy day in a city.

A conceptual method for effective team meetings, problem solving, decision making and evaluation where all focus in the same direction at any moment. Changes of direction and all views are put down in parallel. □

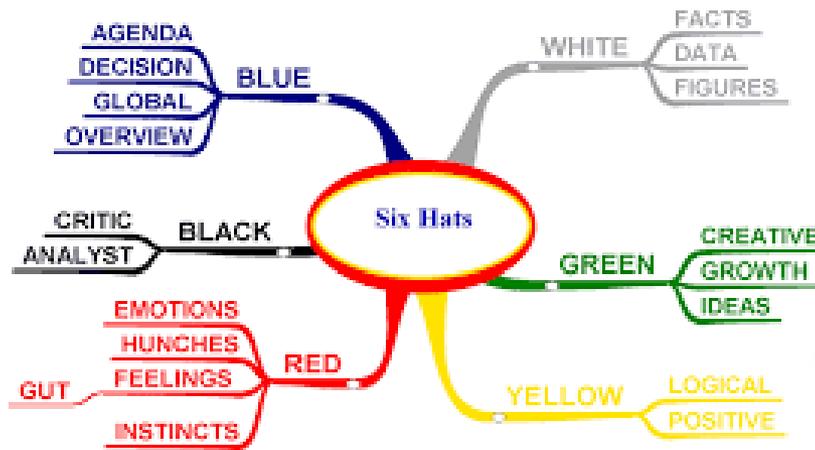

Full exploration of subject/ problem. Concerned with ‘what can be.’,,

Involves critical and creative thinking and ‘designing a way forward.’,,

Deals with only one aspect /thing at a time.

Skill Set: Vision

Most of my favorite strips featured one character. I loved reading about Snoopy's adventures as the flying ace dueling with the Red Baron. Great leaders have an imagination and creativity that can envision what seems impossible to others.

“Can you tell me which road to take?”

“Where do you want to go?” responded the Cheshire cat.

“I don't know,” Alice answered.

“Then,” said the cat, “it doesn't matter.”

A goal without a plan is just a wish

Set Action Plan

Be Clear & Enthusiastic

“Transmit your vision emotionally by gaining credibility, demonstrating passion, establishing relationships and communicating a felt need. Transmit it logically by confronting reality, formulating strategy, accepting responsibility, celebrating victory and learning from defeat.”
– John Maxwell

The problems of the world cannot possibly be solved by skeptics or cynics, whose horizons are limited by the obvious realities. We need men who can dream of things that never were, and ask why not.

~ John F. Kennedy

Some men see things as they are and say why. I dream things that never were and say, why not?

(Robert Kennedy)

Skill Set: Confidence

Charlie Brown rarely came across as a confident leader, but he always managed to pull the group together in a crunch. In “Race for Your Life, Charlie Brown” he gets the kids out of a dire situation by taking charge. Leaders often are individuals willing to take responsibility in a crisis.

Henry Ford

“Whether you think you can or you can't, you're right.”

David Lloyd George

“Don’t be afraid to take big steps. You can’t cross a chasm in two jumps.”

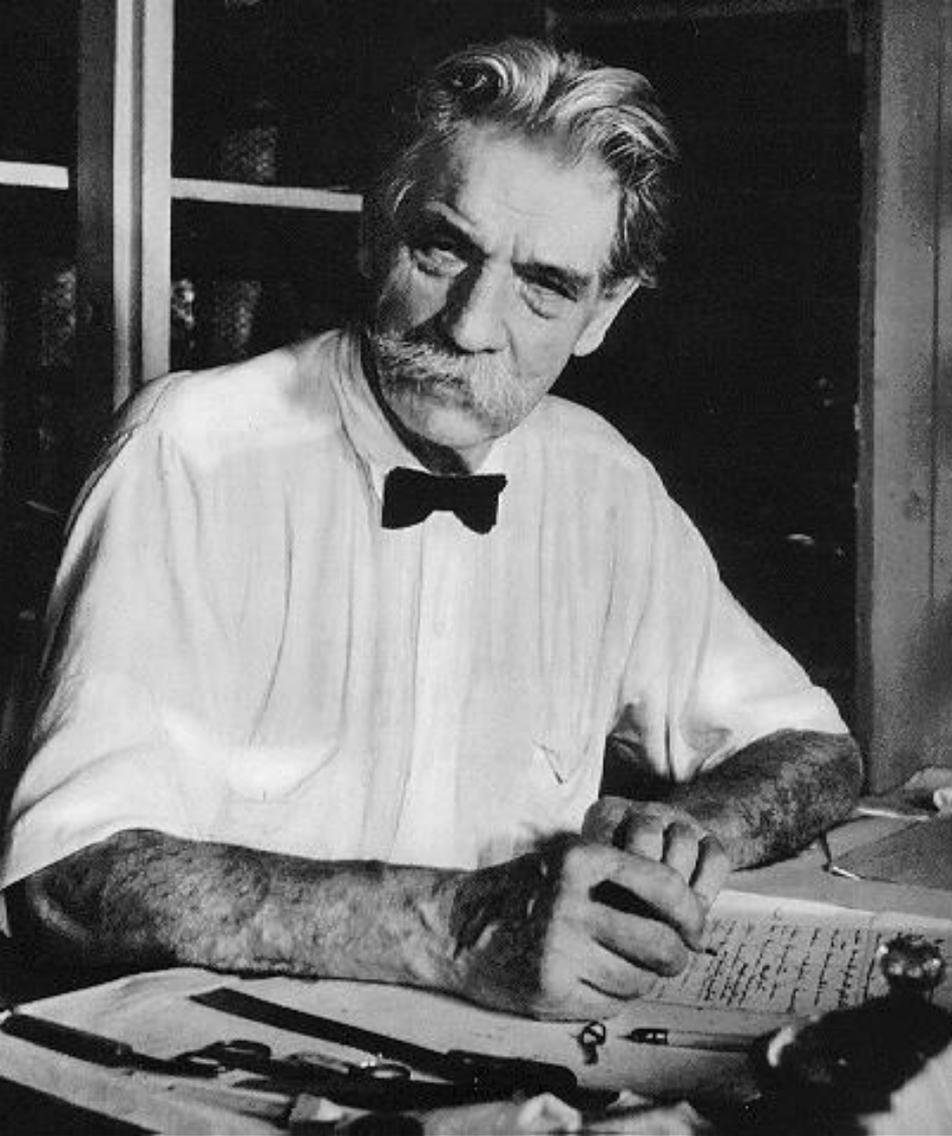

Winston Churchill

“An optimist sees opportunity in every calamity;
a pessimist
sees calamity in every opportunity.”

Skill Set: Autonomy – Internal Compass

“You’re a Good Man, Charlie Brown” was the name of the musical based on the original strip. Chuck knew despite his struggles he had done the best he could with the cards dealt. Leaders too have this internal compass that directs their behaviors towards their goals.

Dr. Albert
Schweitzer

“Example is not the main thing in influencing others. It’s the only thing.”

“It is not fair to ask of others what you are not willing to do yourself.”

Eleanor Roosevelt

Theodore
Roosevelt

"In any moment of decision the best thing you can do is the right thing."

Martin Luther King

“Time is always right to do what is right.”

Skill Set: Courage & Bravery

Leaders demonstrate and model bravery/courage in their actions, as well as respect their followers and foster loyalty between the group members. One of the most endearing traits of the Peanuts gang is their friendship.

Courage is the MOST IMPORTANT
of all the virtues, because

Skill Set: Character

The character of Woodstock was mute, but we always knew his intentions. His actions spoke volumes. Leaders project an aura you can sense without the need for words.

“If your actions inspire others to dream more,
learn more,
do more & become more, you are a leader.”

Leaders are the ones who are willing to give up something of their own for us. Their time, their energy, their money, maybe even the food off their plate. When it matters, leaders choose to eat last.

— Simon Sinek

LEADERS EAT LAST

BY SIMON SINEK

One of the best leadership metaphors ever created just happens to be the title of Simon Sinek's latest book: Leaders Eat Last.

In the Marines (not a place you could accuse of being “warm and fuzzy”) the leaders actually do eat last. True leaders, they believe, put the needs of the people they lead above their own.

Skill Set: Listening & Learning = Connections

Lucy's entrepreneurial spirit led her to a psychiatric practice. The sign on her booth read, "The Doctor is In" and we knew that she would be there to listen. While Lucy rarely gave good advice, she did hear the kids out just like a leader must do with his supporters.

Skill Set: Communication in a Digital World

The adults in the world of Charlie Brown could not be understood by readers. In the TV specials their voices were represented by the familiar “wah,wah,wah” sound. To effectively lead one must be able to clearly communicate with the team.

The background features a network of blue lines connecting various human icons. Some icons are dark blue, while others are black. Many icons have speech bubbles above them, indicating communication or dialogue. The overall theme is social interaction and communication.

Skill Set: Balance Continuity & Change

A leader maintains the relationships and procedures that “work” and are efficient in design, and also adapts to and embraces change – leading the way for her or his followers.

Pillars of Digital Leadership

As schools change, leadership must as well.

With society becoming more and more reliant on technology, it is incumbent upon leaders to harness the power of digital technologies in order to create school cultures that are transparent, relevant, meaningful, engaging, and inspiring. In order to set the stage for increasing achievement and to establish a greater sense of community pride for the work being done in our schools, we must begin to change the way we lead. To do this, leaders must understand the origins of fear and misconceptions that often surround the use of technology, such as social media and mobile devices.

So how would one define digital leadership? I think it is important to first look at the concept of leadership in general. Wikipedia defines leadership as a changing entity are school buildings and many of the leaders that reside within their walls.

Digital leadership takes into account recent changes such as ubiquitous connectivity, open-source technology, mobile devices, and personalization. It represents a dramatic shift from how schools have been run and structured for over a century. What started out as a personal use of technology has where to begin. Digital leadership is not about flashy tools, but a strategic mindset that leverages available resources to improve what we do, while anticipating the changes needed to cultivate a school culture focused on engagement and achievement. It is a transformed construct of leadership that

The basic tenets of leadership are still valuable and needed for our schools to succeed. These foundational elements will never change. However, the changing times, as well as society's reliance on technology, demand an evolution of leadership practices to create schools that our learners deserve and need to succeed in today's world. It all begins with trust. Digital leaders must give up control and trust students and teachers to use real-world tools to unleash creativity and a passion for learning. The time is now, control and trust students and teachers to use real-world tools to unleash creativity and a passion for learning. The time is now, whether you are a district, building level or teacher leader, to boldly move schools forward into the digital age. Only then will we be able to create and sustain a digital learning culture that is relevant, meaningful, applicable, and provides all students with the skills to succeed.

Once the fears and misconceptions are placed on the table, leaders can begin to establish a vision for the effective use of technology to improve numerous facets of leadership. The challenge for school leaders is why, how, and

7 Pillars of Digital Leadership in Education

1. Communication

Leaders can now provide stakeholders with relevant information in real time through a variety of devices. No longer do static, one-way methods such as newsletters and websites suffice. Important information can be communicated through various free social media tools and simple implementation strategies in order to meet stakeholders in the digital age. Digital leadership is about engaging all stakeholders in two-way communication.

Digital Citizenship: Using the Internet and Social Media in a responsible and ethical way

Digital Leadership: Using the Internet and Social Media to improve the lives, well-being and circumstances of others - George Couros

I am a responsible Digital Citizen.

I use the internet and Social Media...

I am an inspirational Digital Leader.

I use the internet and Social Media...

1. To share appropriate stories, images, videos and ideas with friends and family.

2. I have a positive digital footprint.

3. I give due credit when I share an idea, image or video.

4. I treat others the way I would like to be treated.

5. I report inappropriate online behaviour.

1. To learn and share learning.

2. To empower others with no voice.

3. To address societal inequality.

4. To promote important causes.

5. To be a more positive influence in the lives of others.

How to make the transition? Find a passion and start influencing others to make a positive change!

2. Public Relations

If we don't tell our story, someone else will, and more often than not, another's version will not be the one we want told. Leaders need to become storytellers-in-chief. We can now form the foundation of a positive public relations platform using free social media tools where we control the content. By doing so, we create the means by which we share all of the positives associated with our schools, and create a much needed level of transparency in an age of negative rhetoric toward education.

3. Branding

Businesses have long understood the value of branding and its impact on current and potential consumers. Leaders can leverage social media tools to create a positive brand presence that emphasizes the positive aspects of school culture, increases community pride, and helps to attract/retain families when looking for a place to send their children to school.

Digital Leadership

4. Student Engagement/Learning

We cannot expect to see increases in achievement if students are not learning. Students that are not engaged are not likely to be learning. Leaders need to understand that schools should reflect real life and allow students to apply what they have learned through the use of the tools they are using outside of school.

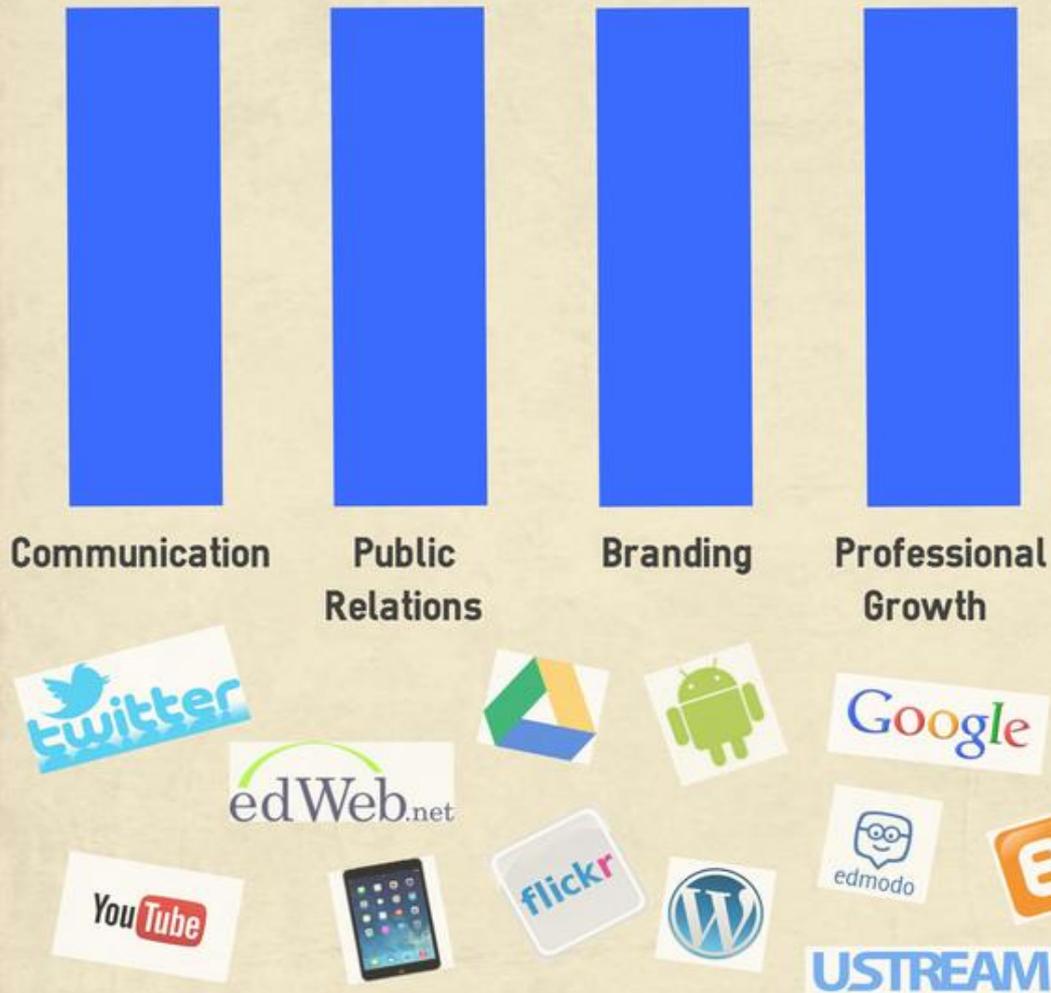

Digital leaders understand that we must put real-world tools in the hands of students and allow them to create artifacts of learning that demonstrate conceptual mastery. This is an important pedagogical shift as it focuses on enhancing essential skill sets—communication, collaboration, creativity, media literacy, global connectedness, critical thinking, and problem solving – that society demands. With a solid pedagogical

5. Professional Growth/Development

With the rise of social media, schools no longer have to be silos of information and leaders do not have to feel like they are on isolated islands that lack support and feedback. Leaders can form their own Personal Learning Network (PLN) to meet our diverse learning needs, acquire resources, access knowledge, receive feedback, connect with both experts in the field of education as well as practitioners, and discuss proven strategies to improve teaching, learning, and leadership. There are also new and exciting ways to acknowledge both formal and informal learning through the use of digital badges, as opposed to more antiquated systems that focus on contact hours instead of learning. To remain relevant and on the cutting edge, leaders need to be cognizant of how to harness and leverage a slew of free tools to follow their learning passions.

Digital Leadership

6. Re-envisioning Learning Spaces and Environments

Once leaders understand the pillars and how to use them to initiate sustainable change, the next step is to begin to transform learning spaces and environments that support essential skill sets and are aligned with the real world. Leaders must begin to establish a vision and strategic plan to create an entire school building dedicated to learning in a more digital world. In order to do so, leaders must be knowledgeable of the characteristics and dynamics that embody innovative learning spaces and environments such as Bring Your Own Device (BYOD), blended learning, the flipped classroom, gamification, makerspaces, and virtual learning.

Digital Leadership

7. Opportunity

It is important for leaders to consistently seek out ways to improve existing programs, resources, and professional development. Digital leaders leverage connections made through technology and increase opportunities to make improvements across multiple areas of school culture.

Five Tools to Support Digital Leadership

These social media tools can improve your school's communications.

Blogs. A blog is the 21st century's newsletter. Blogs provide two-way engagement and enable leaders to integrate multimedia content to make stories pop. There's no better medium for sharing strategies, ideas, and success stories. Try the platforms Google Blogger or Wordpress. Besides my official blog as New Milford's principal, I established a professional blog to tell the story of our school's digital transformation and learn from others interested in digital leadership.

Digital photo sharing. Pictures can quickly capture and share student work, facility enhancements, and accomplishments. During classroom observations, you might snap photos of student projects, then post them to Instagram. From your Instagram account, you can easily share any photo across other accounts such as Twitter.

Video platforms. Creating a YouTube channel or Vine account for your school enables you to capture and share learning and social activities as they happen. Through tools like Ustream, you can share live events like school concerts in real time.

Twitter. 140-character tweets can be a dynamic combination of text, pictures, videos, and links to websites. By creating a hashtag for your school, you can share a searchable conversation on any threaded issue—meaning categorized and tagged through Twitter—with stakeholders. Use established hashtags to increase exposure of your stories. During the beginning of each school year, leaders should send home a letter to parents that describes Twitter, how to create an account, and how to configure settings to receive text messages. The ability for people to receive Twitter updates on their own terms makes it unlike any traditional communication tool. As principal, I created an official school account.

Facebook. This tool can become your storytelling hub. Parents, students, alumni, and community members will begin to congregate in this virtual space. If you set up your page to support two-way communications, they can add their own content as well as "like" posts and comment. All the tools above can be integrated or shared on a Facebook page.

When I was 5 years old, my mother always told me that happiness was the key to life. When I went to school, they asked me what I wanted to be when I grew up.

I wrote down 'happy'.

They told me I didn't understand the assignment, and I told them they didn't understand life.
